1. Dr. Constantin Drăgan, President of the Rumanian Movement for European Unity, is a well-known sympathizer with the Rumanian Iron Guard. A man of considerable wealth, he is known to support financially various members of the Iron Guard. Horia Sima's Memoir to King Mihai was printed at his expense.
2. Drăgan owns an interest in the broadcasting station "Radio Europa", which was to be built at Tangier. The facilities of this station, which will broadcast commercial advertisements, will be made available for propaganda broadcasts by European federation movements.
3. Octavian Roșu, Secretary General of the Rumanian organization, was formerly a member of the Iron Guard and served as a prefect under the Antonescu-Sima Government in 1940. He fled to Germany after the collapse of the Iron Guard rebellion in January 1941 and presently lives in Milan. Roșu has participated actively in arranging the emigration of Rumanians to Argentina.
4. Alexander Grigorian, who is engaged in propaganda work for the Movement, has played a prominent role in Rumanian anti-Semitic movements. Dr. Trăian Moga, Desmireanu and Horia Roman have never been members of the Iron Guard and are not presently sympathetic with that organization.
